Let's Start!

Peter gets important news, but something is missing! What does he do?

Learning Outcome

Exchange information on instructions about basic activities and safety at work.

Can Do Statements

- I can ask for missing information.
- I can talk about jobs and work.
- I can ask and say what people do.

Ask your partner:

- When do you have to ask for missing information?
- How can you ask for missing information?

Let's Explore!

Peter gets a message ... It's a voicemail! Who's it from?

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Peter: My phone isn't working!

Sally: That's awful!

Peter: Mmhm. I can't check or respond to my e-mails now.

Sally: Peter! Stop worrying about the interview!

Peter: Now, it's raining.

Sally: Let's go home. Is that your phone? Look, Peter, you have a new message on your voicemail!

Peter: Hey, I do! Maybe it's Mr. Jones!

Sally: Put it on speaker! Let's hear it!

Mr. Jones: Hello, Peter. This is Mr. Jones from SMC Consulting. Sorry I couldn't reach you. I'm calling to discuss your interview. Call me back at 222-790-5469. Please call before 3:00 p.m. Thanks. Have a good day.

Sally: Peter! This is fantastic! Call him back!

Peter: I didn't catch the number. Did you hear it?

Sally: Here. Let me write it down for you.

Learning Points

Asking for Missing Information

You use Wh- questions when you ask for missing information.

The Wh- word takes the place of the missing information in the question.

The Wh- word we choose depends on what type of information is missing.

Wh- Word	Missing Information	Examples
What	a thing or things	What is that? What did he say? What are you doing?
Who	a person or people	Who was the message from?
When	a time or date	When do I call?
Where	a place	Where is it? Where did you go?
Why	a reason	Why did you call me?

Present Simple Tense

Use the Present Simple to talk about facts and usual actions.

To form the negative, use do/does not before the verb.

Do not add s to the verb when used with he, she, it.

Pay attention to the short form don't. It's used in talking.

To form a yes/no question, use do/does and change the word order like this: Do/Does + subject + verb

Do not add s to the verb with he, she, it.

Examples:

- I didn't catch the number.
- Do you have a voicemail?
